"FROM COMFORT ZONE TO PUBLIC AREA"

Born into a family of eight
I was the quietest one.
Twenty-four years later
I started another chapter in life,
Marriage.
Still remaining quiet, respectful of my husband
My domestic chores, and my duties as a mother.
Attending to customary expectations
And a very faithful church-goer.
Happily living in my comfort zone.

19 years into my marriage,
I joined the Vanuatu Women's Centre
As a volunteer librarian,
Building the Centre's information pool.
Became community educator a year later.
Taking the message about violence against women into the communities???

Feeling uncomfortable and not totally confident,
I prepared myself,
Ready to explore the world outside my comfort zone.

Skills I had to learn
To facilitate and train,
To be punctual,
To be assertive and outspoken,
To be confident and comfortable,
To be factual about the issues,
To be knowledgeable about culture and traditions,
About religion,
About politics,
I had to explore, research and reeducate myself on these issues.
I learnt to talk, act and think with care.
Honesty, truthfulness, humility, respect, confidentiality,
These are values I needed,
To complete a task
Without stirring a negative feedback.
